Rolling Admissions

At Cavalla International University of America and Liberia, you are part of an international community of students and highly distinguished professors. The University welcomes all our students from around the world. Our online community of faculty and students bring together creative, passionate, and intellectually engaged students from all around the globe, with the common goal of obtaining excellent, innovative, and creative education along with a high standard of research skills. Cavalla International University of America is an American and Liberian online university or an American Accelerated University as it is commonly called. The university uses internet and electronics methods to conduct live classes for its students. Students are also encouraged to study independently with the help of an assigned faculty mentor.

Cavalla International University of America and Liberia offers over 100 degrees and over 20 specialized certification courses from the graduate school, Barclay College of Law and the 5 undergraduate colleges. The university offers doctoral degrees, Law degrees and undergraduate degrees, including Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering and Technology, Health and Sciences, Business Administration and Management and many Specialized Certification Courses that will meet the interest and needs of our global students. The university endeavors to hire and recruit highly qualified and reputable local and international professors to guide the students as faculty members and mentors. The programs are flexible and affordable and take into consideration the busy schedule of students that are working adults. Our global community is open and welcomes all to be part of the wonderful learning experience at Cavalla International University. Professors at Cavalla International University are those who have received a canonical mission to teach in the name of the Church, educating disciples in lessons of faith and morality. This devotion to theological scholarship is augmented by access to major, international conferences that expose students to presentations, lectures, and thought leadership from world-renowned scholars and speakers.
